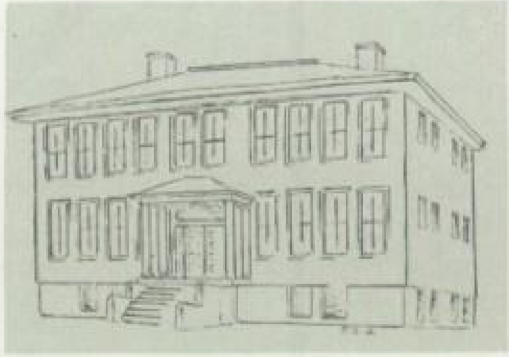
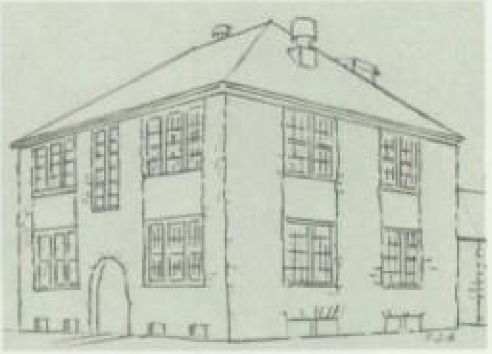
PREFACE

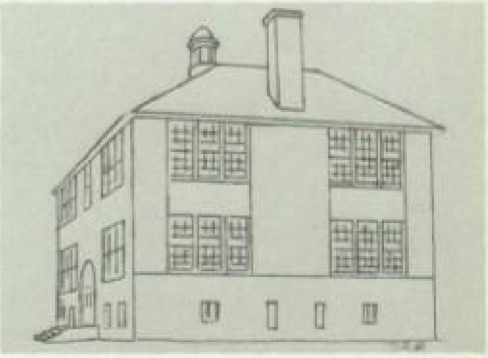


Apple Grove Agricultural School

Louisa County High School



Louisa School



Mineral School

In honor of the twenty-fifth year of operation of Louisa County High School's history, spanning the years 1940-65, may this CORE be a unique reminder of the ever-present challenge for betterment.

The formation of Louisa County High School came about by the consolidation into a central unit of three separate high schools within the county. May the theme of the 1965 CORE, PROGRESS THROUGH EDUCATION, serve as a constant reminder of the past and as a challenge to reach greater horizons.

Not only the students of the Anniversary Year 1965, but everyone who shares in the common heritage of Louisa County High School shall now recall the past, bringing to mind all the things this school means to each.

The staff hopes that in future years the 1965 CORE will serve as a source of the school's history. May the history and the memories bound in this book somehow become a meaningful memory of each student.

IN MEMORY

Diane Marie Sprouse

In the depth of your hopes and desires lies your silent knowledge of the beyond;

And like seeds dreaming beneath the snow your heart dreams of spring.

Trust the dreams for in them is hidden the gate to eternity.

Kahill Gibran

PROGRESS THROUGH EDUCATION

Louisa County High School as it appeared twenty-five years ago.

Before its addition in 1954, the home economics cottage looked like this.

The completion of the school in 1959 enabled it to offer a full, comprehensive program.

During the era of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, there was established an agency known as the Public Works Administration. It was through this federal agency that many local areas received partial aid for the furthering of American education---this included Louisa County. After considerable study, planning, and labor, there merged in the heart of Louisa County a new consolidated public high school at Mineral, Virginia. Previously, students had attended three high schools located at Louisa, Mineral, and Apple Grove, Virginia; but the consolidation allowed the five districts of the county to merge their entire high school population, thus enhancing their educational opportunities.

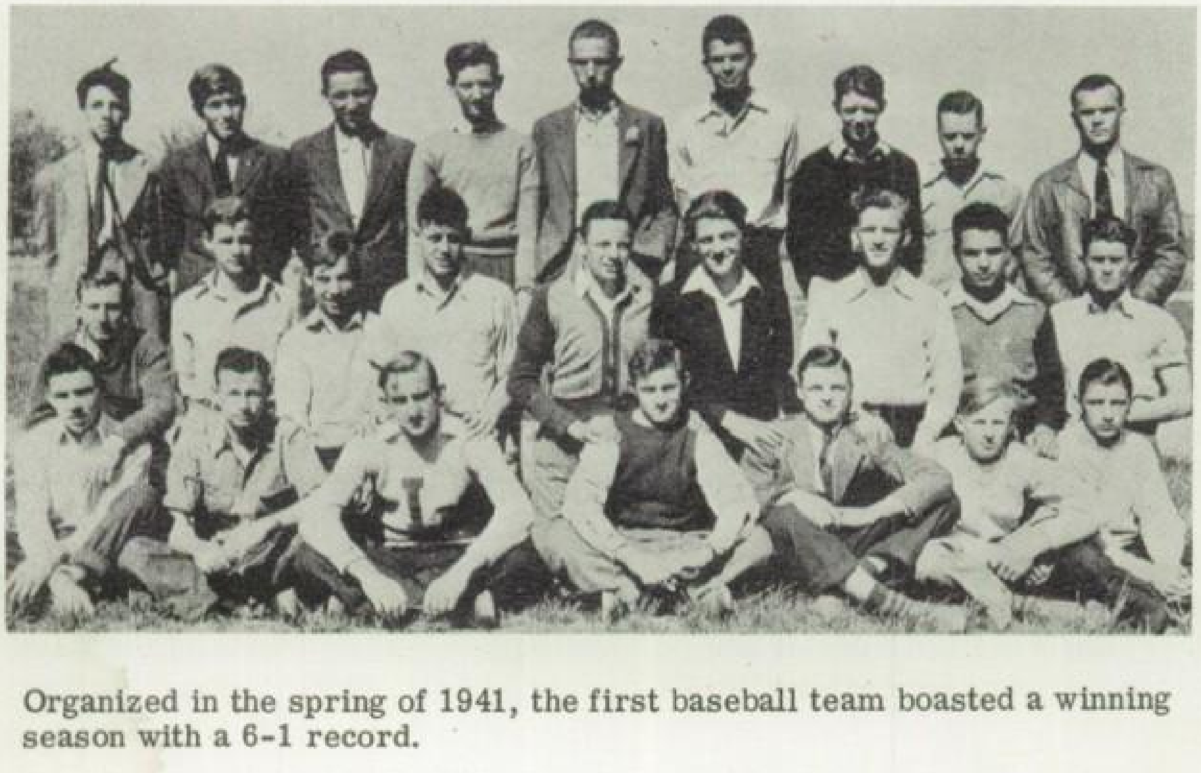
Although Louisa County High School began making its own history as four hundred thirty-three anxious students filed into the new auditorium September 10, 1940, the school plant was incomplete at this time; for, when construction on the building began, it was learned that funds would permit only the erection of a classroom section, auditorium, shop, and a separate home economics building. These facilities were built with the hope of completing the school according to the architectural blueprints within two or three years. Because of other urgent building needs in the county and the intervention of World War II, the remaining section---gymnasium, cafeteria, band room, and physical education facilities--was not completed until 1959. It was not until this time that the school was able to offer a full, comprehensive program.

In order to meet the school's growing needs, the number of faculty members in 1947 has been doubled.

Mr. Russell B. Gill was the first principal at Louisa County High School.

The first faculty of Louisa County High School was comprised of sixteen members, four of whom---Mrs. Dorothy Deane, Major Nevin Behrens, Mr. George Lancaster, and Mr. E. M. Pennington ---are members of the present faculty.

Throughout the school's history, time has wrought many changes--both apparent and obscure. Even though this is apparent in the activities, interests, and attitudes of today's students, there still remains the never-ceasing quest for knowledge and the continuance of deep friendships.



Organized in the spring of 1941, the first baseball team boasted a winning season with a 6-1 record.

Striving to satisfactorily solve school problems, the Student Council was formed in 1941.

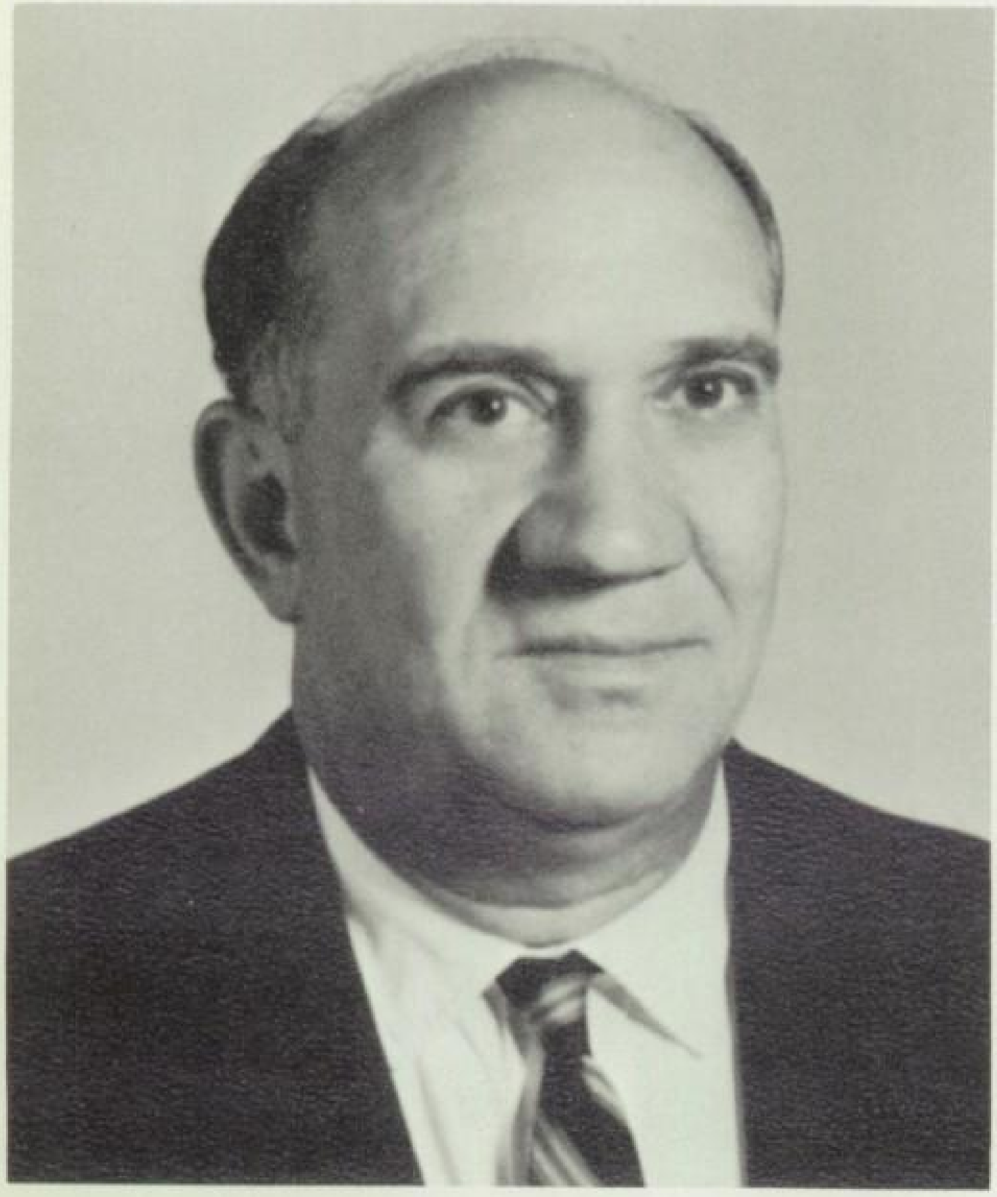
Started in the fall of 1947, the first team to represent Louisa County High School on the gridiron made a creditable showing with a 1-4-1 record.

In contrasting the old with the new, one finds that the many faces of Louisa County High School have changed. The faculty, as well we the student body, has increased-and is continuing to increase-in size, thus causing a continual advancement in the growing curriculum. Extra-curricular activities are unrecognizable in comparison with their beginning. The earlier sports and clubs have been replaced or expanded through the years so that they now offer the student body many broad areas of interest and enjoyment. In contrast also, the school building itself has been greatly improved by the addition of greenery and landscaping, and the grounds now provide space to house a county-wide school bus shop.

By continuing the growth in education in the modern world and constantly striving to surpass the known academic standards, Louisa County High School can, indeed, look forward to the next twenty-five years with the realization that, as in the past, we can make PROGRESS THROUGH EDUCATION.

ADMINISTRATION

ADMINISTRATION



Mr. Martin and Mr. Morris work together to coordinate all facets of the school. Mr. Martin, principal, is responsible for the school's schedule and curriculum, discipline, faculty management, and all school activities. In performing his vast duties, Mr. Martin has earned the respect and admiration of all who are associated with him. Besides serving as assistant-principal, Mr. Morris is in charge of the bus drivers.

It is through the administration's wise counseling that the students are able to attain their goals.

HARRY S. MARTIN, PRINCIPAL

WILLIAM E. MORRIS
ASSISTANT-PRINCIPAL

GUIDANCE

MISS ALICE ESTES
Guidance Counselor,
College of William and Mary, B.A.,
University of Virginia, M. Ed.,
F.T.A. Sponsor.

Johnny Webner discusses plans for his curriculum with Miss Estes.

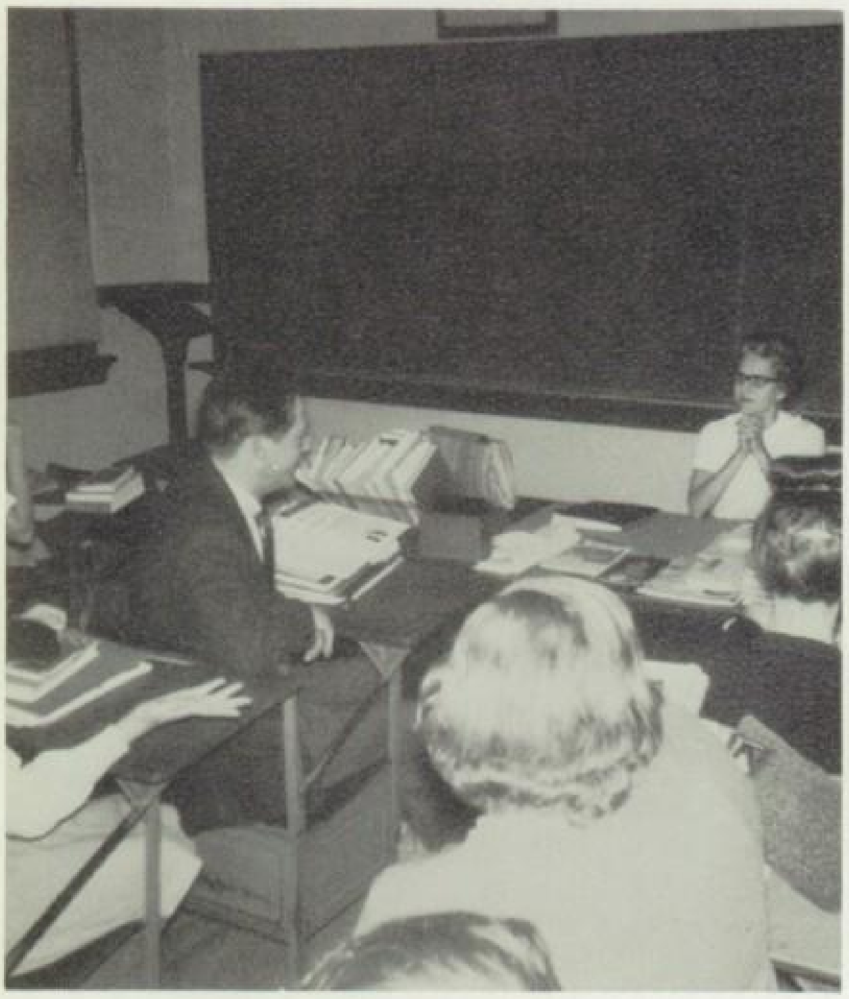
MRS. DOROTHY DEANE
Guidance Counselor, English,
Longwood College, B.S.,
N.H.S. Sponsor.

The purpose of the guidance department is to help students in choosing appropriate courses which will lead them toward their educational and vocational goals.

This department is responsible for setting up the school's schedule of classes and each student's courses. Numerous other duties include personal problems, records, transcripts, standardized testing, and advice about scholarships, job openings, and personal problems.

Each fall the guidance department sponsors College Night as a special service to juniors and seniors interested in further education or training.

Mrs. Deane alternates periods of guidance and English.



"Bobby, what ARE you telling Mrs. Woodward?"

MRS. THELMA GUILD
English, French,
University of Arkansas, A.B.,
Forensics, Sponsor

MRS. EDITH LAYMAN
English, Algebra,
Mary Washington College,
University of Virginia, B.S.,
Sponsor of Choral Club.

Since English is our spoken language, naturally, courses in English prevail in the curriculum. The English department holds as its purpose the training of the mind grammatically as well as acquainting it with literary values. These are supplemented with creative writing and forensics. The latter includes competitive spelling, debate, poetry reading, public speaking, and prose reading.

Five years of English develops a deeper appreciation of literature and promotes a better understanding of people.

MRS. NANCY WOOWWARD
English, Journalism,
Longwood College, B.S.,
Sponsor of Junior Class and Annual Staff.

MRS. SUE SOUTHALL
English, World Georgraphy,
Mary Washington College, B.A.,
Sponsor of Senior Class.

Mrs. Johnson is engrossed in grading English papers.

LANGUAGES

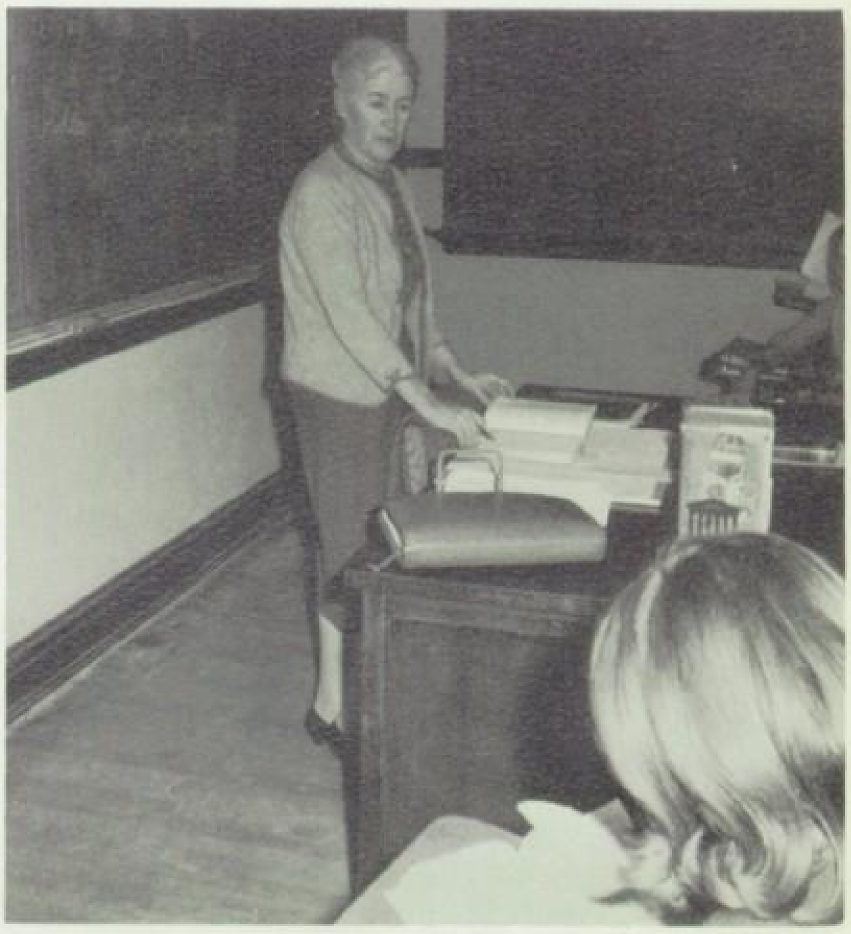
MRS. RUBY GIBSON
English, Consumer Math,
Mary Washington College, B.S.

MRS. SALLY JOHNSON
English, History
Coker College and Richmond Professional Institute, B. S.,
Forensics Sponsor.

Journalism, which is closely related to the English course and the school newspaper, stimulates creative writing. Journalism covers a thorough study of the evolution of the modern newspaper.

The study of Latin and French promotes a better understanding of our own language. It provides a challenge to the student to discover unknown customs and histories.

In this modern world it is essential that an improved communication be promoted between foreign countries.



Mrs. Randolph argues that Latin is NOT a dead language.

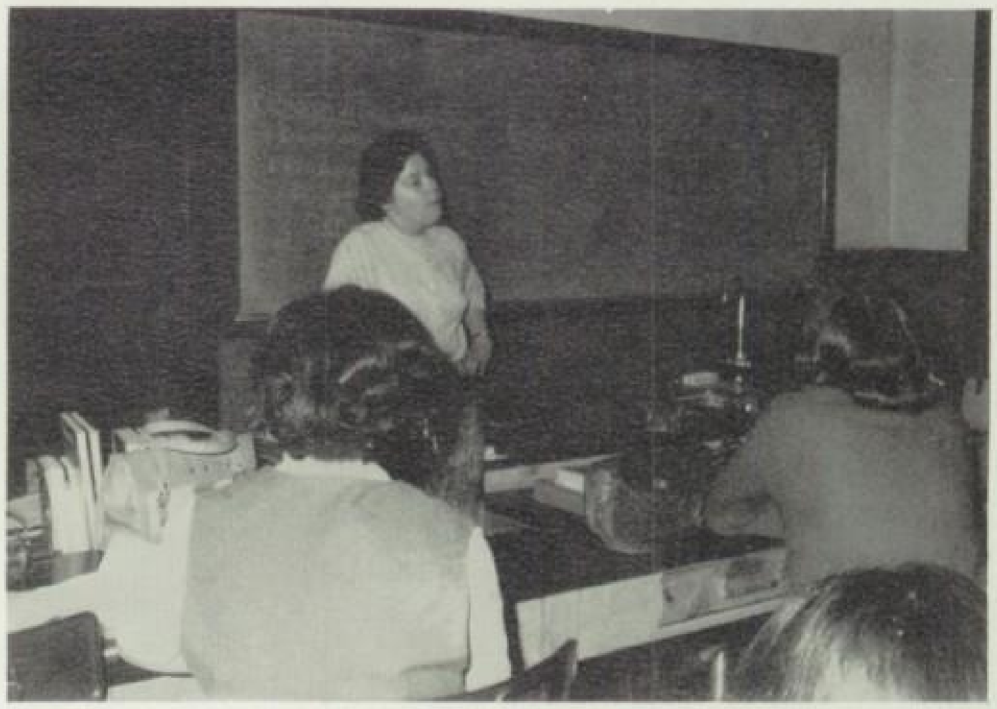
MRS. RUTH KELLER
French, Duke University, A.B.

MRS. AUGUSTA RANDOLPH
Latin,
Bryn Mawr College, B.A.,
University of Virginia, M.A.

A student's answer brings a glow of satisfaction to Mrs. Southall's face.

SCIENCE

"All right, you boys in the back, stop squirting formaldehyde at each other."



Okay Mrs. Wescott, stop posing and start scrubbing your sink!

The science department strives to cultivate the eager minds of their students and to instill a desire for advanced learning.

Aware that a thorough knowledge of general science is necessary for future study of chemistry, biology, and physics, the lower classman studies to gain a broad scientific view. All sciences are laboratory centered. The exploration of the unknown regions of science is intensified by the imagination and curiosity of the student himself.

Science, so important in our world today, teaches new horizons of learning.

MRS. BONNIE S. WESCOTT
Science, Chemistry,
University of Virginia, B.S.,
Sponsor of Annual Staff and Senior Class.

ROBERT F. WILDERMAN
Science, Physics,
Old Dominion College, B.S.,
Freshman Sponsor.

MISS JULIA WILLIAMS
Science, Biology, Phys. Ed.,
Longwood College, B.S.,
Sponsor of Annual Staff and F.T.A.,
Girl's Basketball Coach.

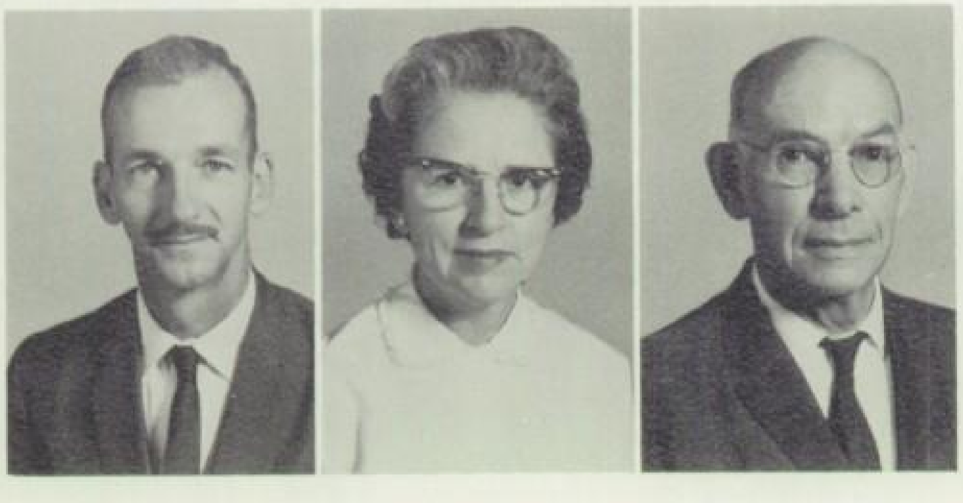
MATH

Colonel Randolph grades math papers with his "leaky" green ink pen.

"Zero is NOT nothing!"

Since in the modern world math is becoming more and more important, the mathematics department strives for a high level of accomplishment. The modern trend toward mathematics centers around the art of reasoning. This proves itself to be more valuable than the one hundred rules of mathematics, for reasoning may be applied in every subject taken.

One may advance from the simpler eighth grade math to advanced math. Two years of algebra, plane geometry, and trigonometry are offered. Commercial students take general math as well as consumer's math.



MAJOR J. NEVIN BEHRENS
Math, Mechanical Drawing, Science,
Berea, Kentucky College and Pennsylvania State Teacher's
College, B.S.,
Eighth Grade Sponsor.

MRS. MARY H. LANCASTER
Math, Geometry, Algebra and Trigonometry,
Salem College, A.B., Sophomore
Class Sponsor.

COLONEL THOMAS J. RANDOLPH
Trig. and Solid Geometry, University of Arizona, B.S., University of Virginia, M.A.

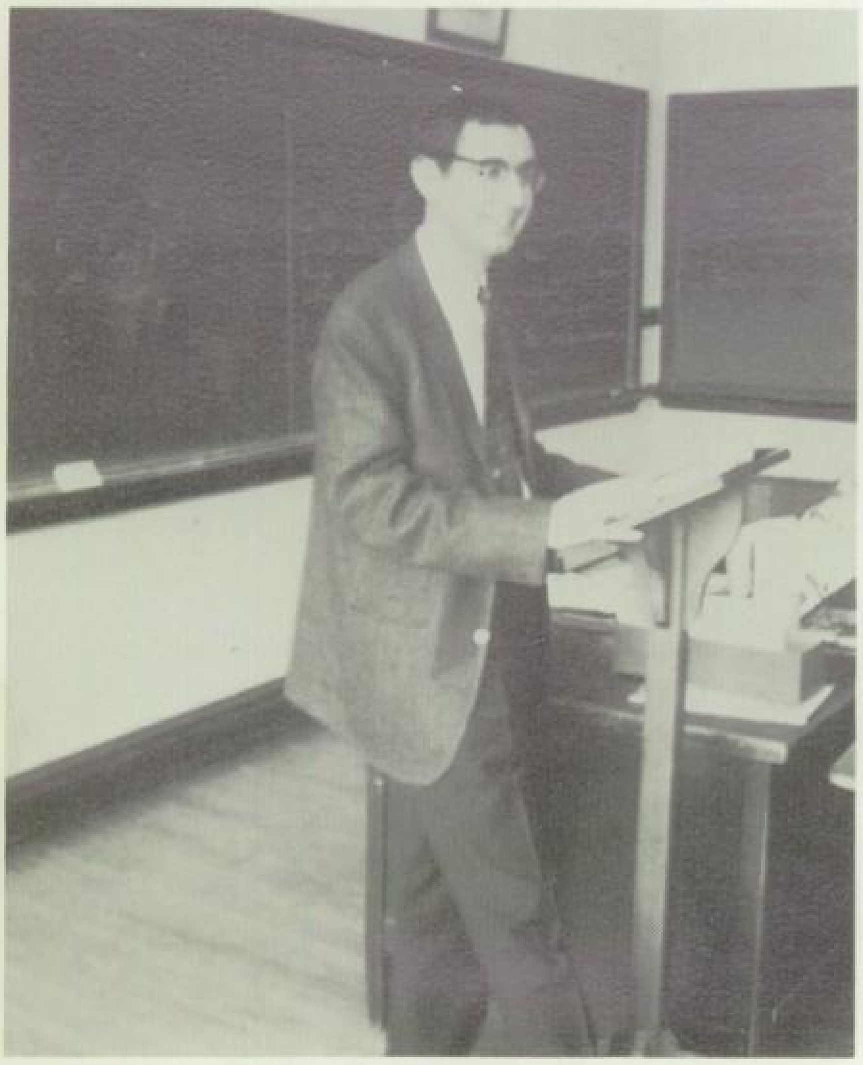
SOCIAL STUDIES

WILLIAM MORRIS
Government, Lynchburg College, B.A., University of Virginia, M. Ed., Interact and Safety Patrol Sponsor, Assistant Varsity Football Coach.

Just look at those suckers!

LESTER G. BRANTLEY, JR.
World History, American History, Atlantic Christian College, A.B., Sophomore Class Sponsor.

Mr. Morris grins after one of his "jokes"!



The social studies department plays a vital role in preparing its students to accept their civic responsibilities and in giving them a better understanding of the world.

Courses in American history, world history, geography, and government are offered. The use of current events, newspapers, slides, and most recently, educational television supplement the courses.

By analyzing the problems of yesterday in the hope of solving those of tomorrow, this department meets the challenge of the future.

BUSINESS

"All right, girls, sit up straight with your feet on the floor, and don't get your pinkies caught between the keys."

MRS. MARY C. GOODLING
Typing, Shorthand,
Richmond Professional Institute,
Girl Friday Club Sponsor.

MISS MARY J. ROWAN
Bookkeeping, General Business,
Math, Madison College, B.S.,
Junior Class Sponsor.

Elmo, a picture of authority, proves HIS point to Mrs. Bernard.

The purpose of the business department is to develop the business men and women of tomorrow. Today's changing world requires more and more men and women to devote their careers to the business field. Future secretaries benefit from two years of shorthand and typing, as well as bookkeeping. Others take business principles or general business. Our community, and, indeed, our nation has promise of a better future because of the work of this department.

VOCATIONAL

MRS. JESSE D. DUNN
Home Ec., Art,
Madison College, B.S.,
F.H.A. Sponsor

Julie and Patsy really have their work "cut out" for them.

The vocational department provides practical experience and training in the fields of agriculture, mechanical training, and home economics.

The agriculture course is divided into two parts: practical experience in farm mechanics in the shop and classroom study of livestock and crop management. The one hundred and seventy agriculture students alternate three week periods of each. In the classroom forestry, animal care, and fertilizers are studied. Welding, woodwork, electricity, and plumbing are covered in the shop. The three agriculture instructors visit their students' homes to observe their projects.

Training in housekeeping, home nursing, child development, family living, cooking, sewing, and in keeping a budget are covered extensively in the home economics program. Four years of home economics and a course for seniors who have not had home economics maintain the goal of making better homemakers of tomorrow.

Work in the shop requires caution and precision, as Kenny demonstrates.

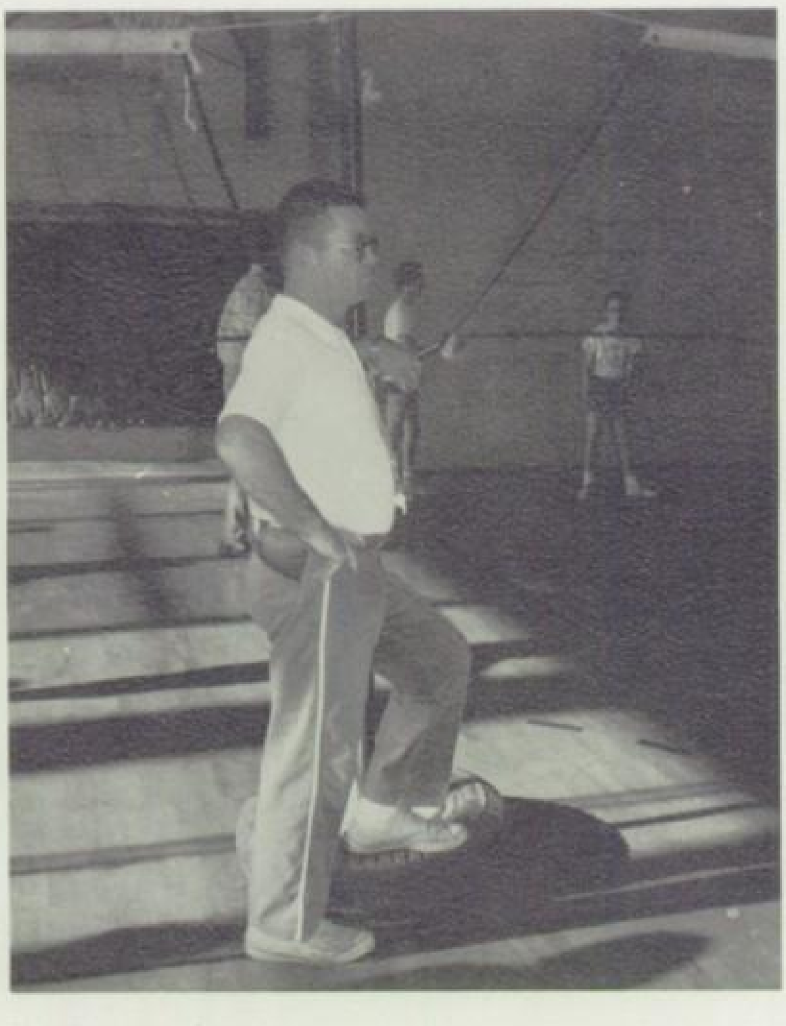
PHYS. ED

MRS. ALICE G. RUSSELL
Phys. Ed., Averett Junior College,
Mary Washington College, B.S.,
Cheerleaders' Sponsor.

NORMAN SMITH
Phys. Ed., College
of Ozarks, B.S.,
Varsity Baseball
Coach.

"Hallelujah!! They ALL took showers today!"

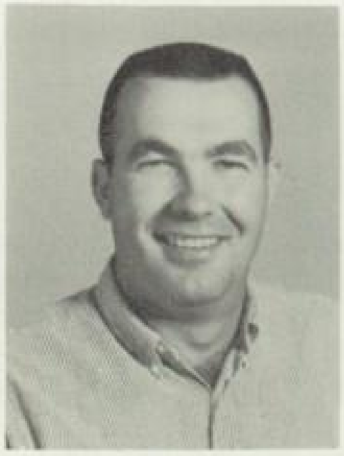


"Coach, are you working hard or hardly working?"

To develop alert, healthy individuals remains the purpose of the physical education department. Students participate in calisthenics and stimulating games which are supplemented by classroom study of health, first aid, and driver's education. In order to have a prosperous nation, Americans must be physically fit. A good mind without good health hinders progress.

ARTS—SKILLS

This shiny new '64 Ford was entrusted to the driver's ed. department by the Louisa Ford Motor Company.



LINDSAY C.
WOOLFOLK JR.
Drivers Education, Phys. Ed., Bridgewater College, B.A., Varsity Basketball Coach, J.V. Football and Baseball Coach.

JAMES S. ARTZ
Math, I.C.T., Shepherd College, B.A., Senior Class and D.O. Club Sponsor, Varsity Football and Track Coach, J.V. Basketball Coach.

I.C.T. students spend one half of the day at school and the other half working at local businesses.

Etching trays was one of the projects in art class this year.

Mr. Harding, band director, teaches three band classes during the day.

SCHOOL AIDS

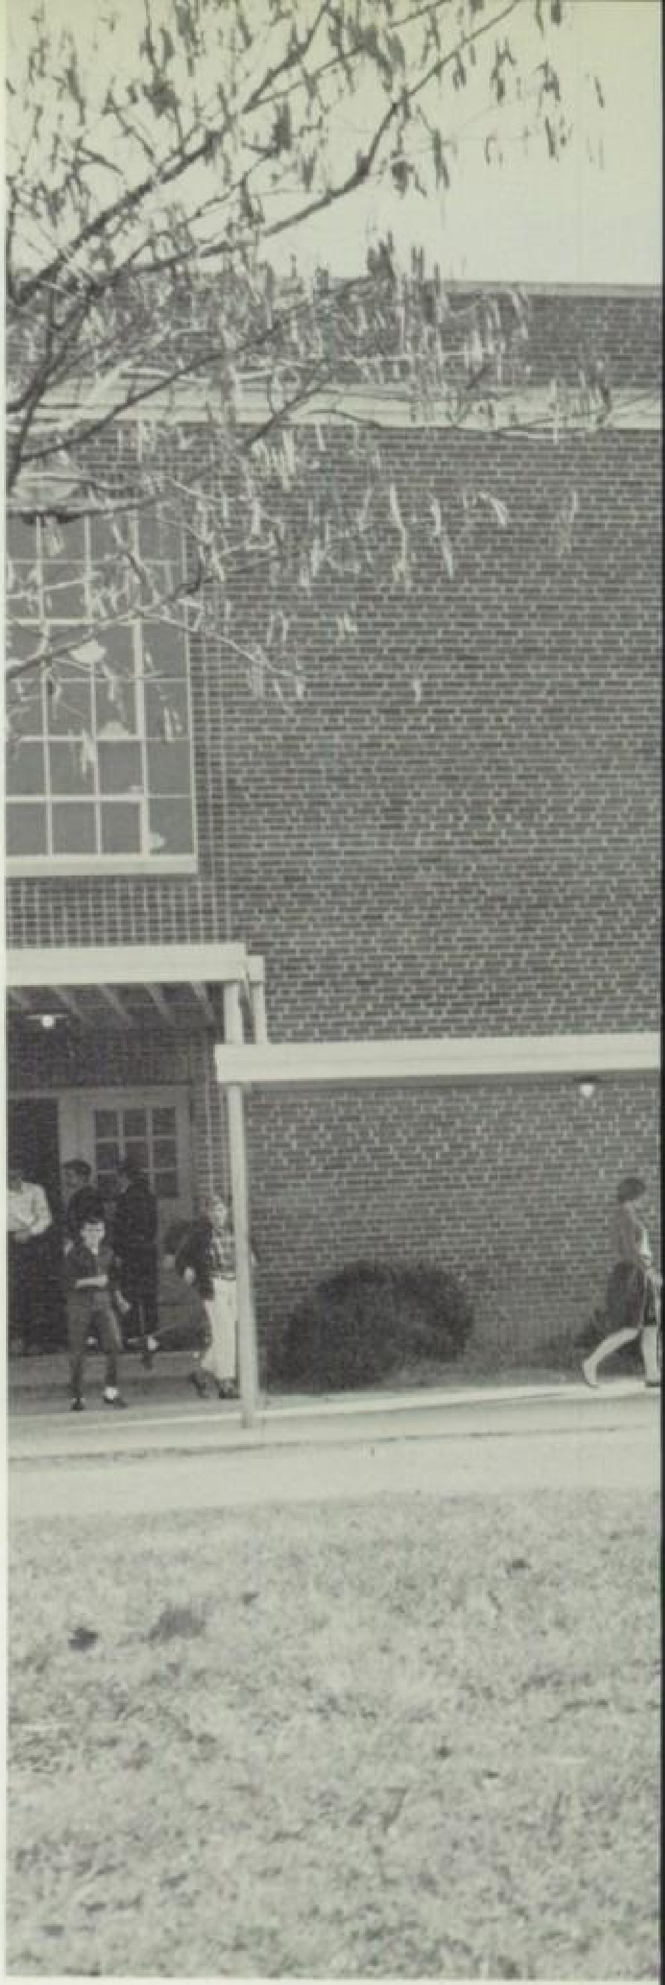
Mrs. Bumpass, school librarian, advises students in choosing books, selects new books for the library, and instructs eighth graders in the use of the library.

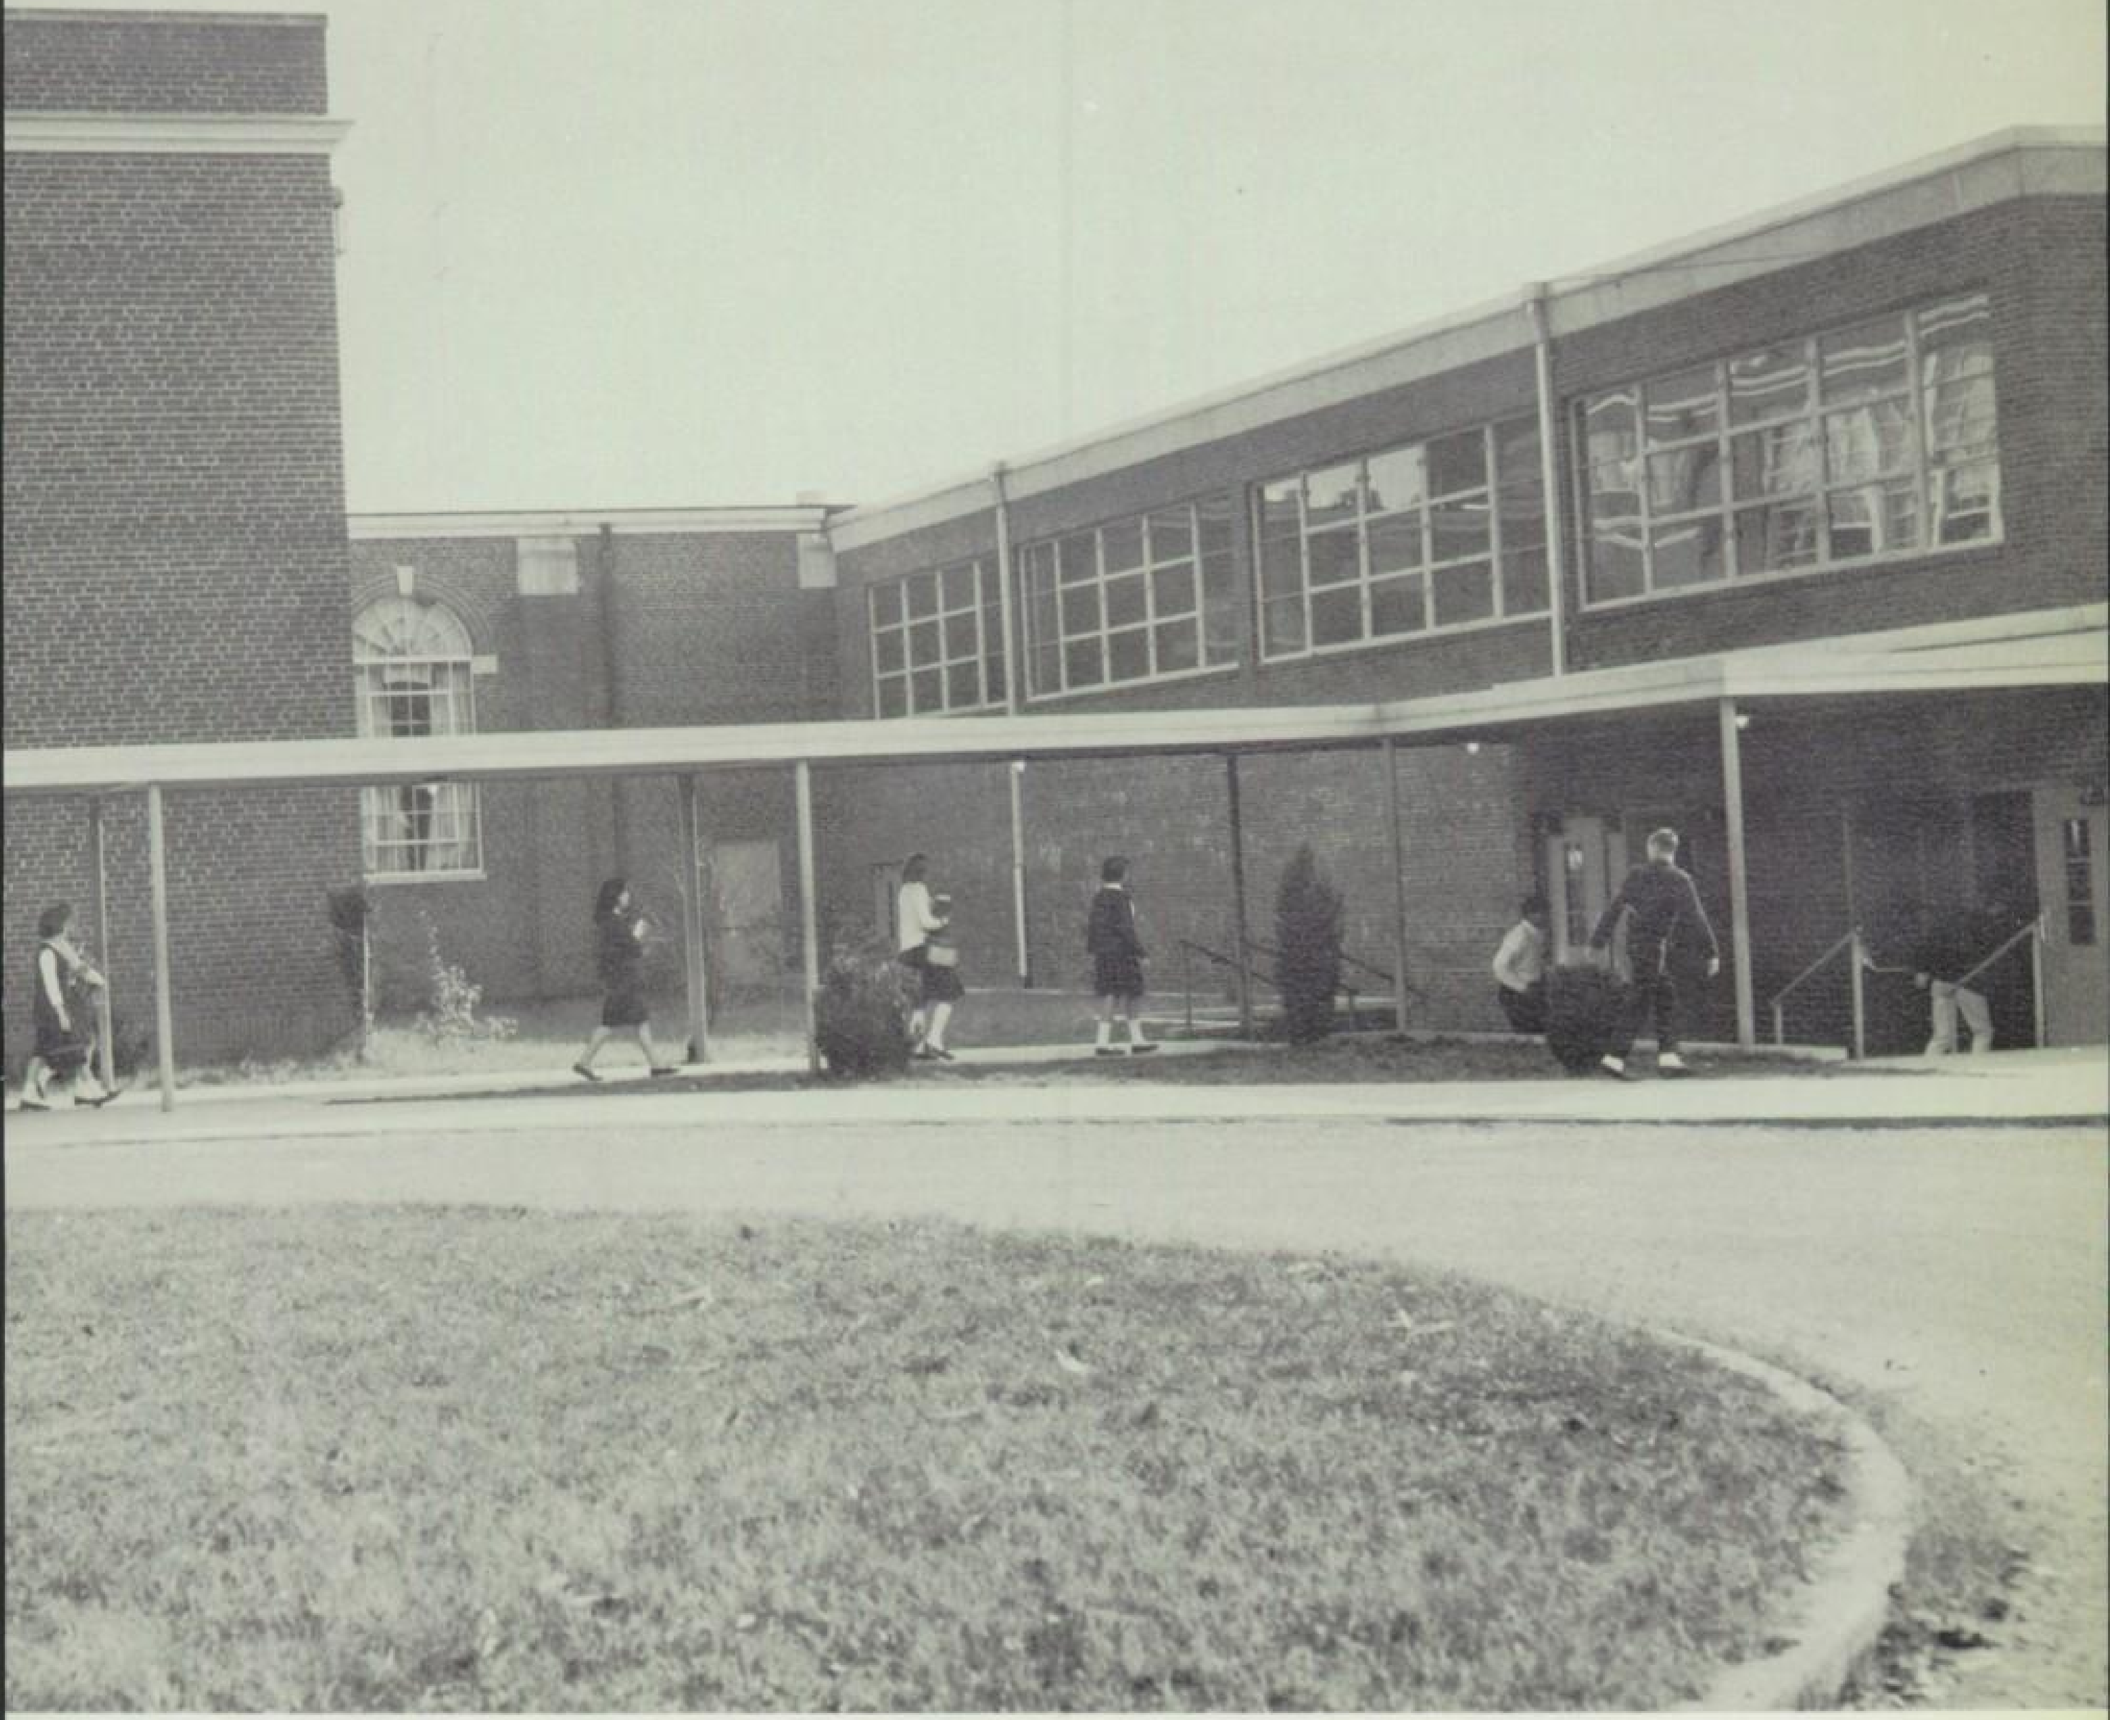
The "unsung hero" and indispensable school secretary is Mrs. Poindexter.

Mrs. Hollins serves as guidance secretary and takes Mrs. Poindexter's place in her absence.

Edward Boxley, school custodian, keeps the school warm in the winter and clean the year round.

Mrs. Pleasants, Mrs. Fisher, manager, Mrs. Quarles, and Mrs. Brooks have cheerfully and expertly prepared tasty meals in the cafeteria.





CLASSES

Senior class officers and sponsors were Nick Solowow, President; Mr. Artz; Mrs. Southall; Kathy Winston, Vice-President; Mrs. Wescott; and Cynthia Dunkum, Secretary-Treasurer.

CLASS OF 1965

The Class of 1965, containing ninety-six members, has the distinction of being the largest graduating class at L.C.H.S.

As eighth graders the class members got to know each other and became adjusted to their new surroundings. Dickie Hopkins, as president, led the class in such money-making pursuits as sockhops and bake sales.

During the freshman year Dickie Hopkins served as president. Being more at home in their new environment, the class attained a clearer perspective of their goals of a prom and a senior trip.

Vicki Hicks and Hudson Grant, voted class king and queen, were presented at the Fourth of July Parade in the summer of the class' sophomore year. The same year Buddy Jones was elected class president.

The following year Mary Lou Bagby was the Hawaiian Queen for another class float. A never-to-be forgotten success was the Junior-Senior Prom. The theme "Oriental Gardens", created a uniquely bewitching atmosphere. This, too, was the year of an eventful experience--that of receiving class rings. Hudson Grant led the class in its junior year and at this time, the class began to see some of its hard work rewarded. The football team captured the District II Championship, and Buddy Jones was elected vice-president of the SCA and later served as president. At the same time, Mary Lou Bagby served as secretary-treasurer, and Marguerite Turner brought honor to the class by winning second place in poetry reading in the State Forensics Meet. The class elected Dale Bordon, Linda Thomas and Nick Solowow as representatives to Boys' and Girls' State.

FINALLY THE SENIOR YEAR ARRIVED. As senior president, Nick Solowow, led the class in its money-making projects of candy sales and serving suppers.

Ann Bowles became the first girl SCA president in ten years. In carrying out the school business, her ability as a leader is to be admired, while Carol Lupton worked with her as SCA secretary-treasurer.

Despite an unfortunate defeat, rain, mud, and the absence of convertibles, the Homecoming Evening remained gay. Phyllis Sprouse, chosen Homecoming Queen by the student body, reigned over the semi-formal dance. Her court consisted of Ann Bowles, Kathy Winston, Barbara Sacra, Mary Lou Bagby, Carol Lupton, and Joyce Grant.

With next to their last examinations at L.C.H.S. behind them the class began to think about the senior play. The class presented "The Courtship of Eddie's Father", a rollicking comedy, which proved a great success. The senior trip to New York City was an experience to be remembered. The prom for the Class of '65 left the seniors with a final golden touch for their memories of L.C.H.S.

The class remains particularly indebted to Mrs. Southall, Mrs. Wescott, and Mr. Artz for their patience, understanding and interest.

Tears as well as smiles describe the final graduation. Each senior will always remain indebted to his teachers and principals for their dedication.

Nine hundred and ninety-four, nine hundred and ninety five. . . . . The juniors go in the red selling pennants.

CLASS OF 1966

As the doors of L.C.H.S. opened again, one hundred and twelve enthusiastic juniors began an exciting year of many activities, opportunities, and plenty of hard work. For college-bound students, this year meant preparations for college, including attending College Night at Albemarle High School and taking Preliminary College Boards.

In November, fourteen juniors were tapped into the N.H.S. Robert Guild, placing highest in individual points in the forestry judging contest, helped the school place first in the Flag Federation Contest.

With the assistance of their sponsors, Miss Rowan, Mrs. Woodward, and Mr. Woolfolk, the junior class plunged whole-heartedly into a year of many successful projects. Though the magazine drive was the most lucrative of their projects, the other sales of pennants, stationery, and chances on a record album, plus a hootenanny and several sock-hops proved to be lots of fun and profitable, too.

Of course, one of the most thrilling moments of the entire year came when each junior received his long-awaited class ring. Planning and working on the Junior-Senior Prom took a lot of time and effort from each junior. This was definitely the most memorable and romantic night of the year.

CLASS OF 1967

The ninety-four members of the sophomore class made another step toward their individual goals for the future.

At this stage, sophomores gained experience and truly felt a part of L.C.H.S. They boosted school spirit at the games, joined clubs, and took part in sports.

One of the class activities was a sock-hop held after a football game to raise money. Mrs. Lancaster and Mr. Brantley, class sponsors, guided the class in its endeavors.

The sophomore class, having passed the half-way mark of its high school career, now has the chance to ponder over the past as well as look to the future.

CLASS OF 1968

This year, being their second at L.C.H.S., found one hundred and seven freshmen more at home than a year earlier. Led by their sponsors, Mrs. Pennington and Mr. Wilderman, the class undertook new responsibilities.

Each freshman found it necessary to decide upon his future courses at Louisa County High. The guidance department suggested that each consider the academic or vocational course in regard to his future career.

Having adjusted to Louisa County High, the freshman class jumped into full swing. Each class activity involved a money-making project, which proved the class had foresight for future responsibilities, such as giving the Junior-Senior Prom and the Senior trip.

One plan, made by the class early in the year, was to give a sock-hop during the lapse between football and basketball seasons. A talent show, presented for the school, was another plan. A novel idea the class invented was the payment of class dues.

All in all, the class progressed in many ways and feels more secure and better prepared for the future.

CLASS OF 1969

Everyone who has entered the eighth grade of Louisa County High School admits that it is a challenging and exciting experience. This experience was made more complex by overcrowdedness for this year's eighth grade class. With more eighth graders than ever before, it took longer to find one's way around the school. Despite difficulties, this brave group survived and succeeded.

Eighth grade boys joined the choral club. Many Students continued their study in band class. Being active joiners of the forensic groups, the eighth graders constituted a large percentage in the debate group.

School spirited participation at both home and away games ranked high with most eighth graders.

The Class of 1969 looks forward to more adventurous years at L.C.H.S.

CLUBS

The S.C.A. officers this year were Ann Bowles, President; Kenny Lancaster, Vice-President; and Carol Lupton, Secretary-Treasurer.

The Student Cooperative Association serves as a nucleus for the school. Throughout the year, Mr. Martin, school principal, often consults Ann Bowles, S.C.A. president, in order to gain a better understanding of the student body's views. The primary function of the organization is to maintain a spirit of cooperativeness among students and between students and the faculty.

The Junior County Government election held in the fall was sponsored by the S.C.A. and the Rotary Club. Since the S.C.A. serves as a government for the students, the election serves as a means of instructing them in election proceedings.

The festive Homecoming Weekend was initiated by the S.C.A. A poll was taken to decide the method preferable to the students for choosing Homecoming Princesses. The tradition of having the football players choose them was maintained. This is just another example of democracy at work in the school. The innovation of the bonfire pep rally heightened school spirit. The semi-formal dance was tastefully decorated by an S.C.A. committee.

School spirit was promoted when the S.C.A. sold buttons and ribbons, especially effective at away games.

An officer exchange program enabled schools to exchange ideas about S.C.A. work and to visit classes of other schools. A study was made of the Honor Code system in hopes it might be promoted in the school.

The student body is justly proud of their well organized and active student council.

Under the co-sponsorship of the Rotary International and the administration of Louisa County High School, the Interact Club serves as an honor organization for boys. The name "interact" was taken from the initials of Rotary's goal of international action.

Membership in this organization is an honor limited to eighteen boys from the freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior classes. Selected on the basis of leadership and scholarship, the new members are chosen annually by the current Interact members.

Since the Interact Club was organized as a service organization for the school and community, its members are engaged in performing numerous duties of primary importance to Louisa County High School. Among these duties are collecting admission at sports events, posting the daily menu, and raising the flag. In the past few years the Interact Club has contributed money for the purchase of bleachers for the gymnasium. This year this organization purchased a United States flag and a state flag for display in the auditorium.

Elected as officers of the Interact Club for the 1964-65 year were the following: Nick Solowow, President; Eddie Richardson, Vice-President; Hudson Grant, Secretary-Treasurer; George Gordon, Chaplain; and Dickie Hopkins, Tommy Nelson and Bob Staples, as the Board of Directors. The sponsors of this organization during the year were Lewis Dobbins, Ward Harkrader, William Morris, and Billy Vaughan.

To create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate responsibility, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character is the four-fold purpose of the National Honor Society. Only students with a B+ average or better are considered for membership. The faculty then selects those students who have demonstrated the other personal characteristics.

In an impressive induction service, before the entire student body, the new members were tapped into the club, were awarded their membership ribbons, and administered the National Honor Society oath.

The club projects for the year, under the leadership of the officers -- Marguerite Turner, President; Dale Borden, Vice-President; and Janie Dodd, Secretary-Treasurer -- included editing the school newspaper, THE REBEL, adopting a needy family at Christmas, selling corsages for the Junior-Senior Prom, and awarding a scholarship to a senior club member. Each year the club honors those students at a picnic who have an all A record. This promotes one of the club's objectives of creating an enthusiasm for scholarship.

F.T.A. members, Sally Phillips, Steve Harris, and Becky Atkins, decorated the Christmas tree for the front entrance. Steve's ingenious use of soap suds proved to be messy.

Primarily made up of college-bound students, the Future Teachers of America promotes an interest in the field of teaching.

A scholarship of seventy-five dollars is awarded to a deserving senior each year by the club. Funds for this project were raised by the sale of Christmas wrappings.

At Christmas the F.T.A. decorated the hall with a tree and donated food and clothing to a needy family.

Two social events of the club were a Valentine Party and an end-of-the-year picnic at which the faculty and their families were entertained.

Officers for the year were Dale Borden, President; Judy Chisholm, Vice-President; Janet Sharpe, Secretary-Treasurer; Johnny Webner, Historian; and Bobby Redmond, Parliamentarian.

EX LIBRIS

The purpose of the Ex Libris is to create interest among students in books, libraries, and library services, as well as to encourage interest in literary accomplishments. Also known as the Library Club, the Ex Libris is an organization whose members are concerned with library activities, usually as library assistants, since members become familiar with the Dewey decimal system, reference material, and all other library facilities.

One of the highlights of the year was the club's trip to the Virginia Museum Theatre. Judy Chisholm, President; Steve Harris, Vice-President; and Linda Hudson, Secretary-Treasurer served as club officers.

To qualify for membership, the student must be a junior or senior who has done outstanding work in some phase of journalism. He must be in the upper third of his class and be recommended by an advisor of one of the publications.

Those inducted last year were; Jean Peers, Linda Thomas, Dale Borden, Mary Lou Bagby, Ann Bowles, Carol Lupton, and Cynthia Dunkum. New members are Marguerite Turner, Nelson Drew, Ann Edwards, Steve Harris, Janet Sharpe, Linda Amick, and Kathy Winston.

New members pay a membership initiation fee, which provides an official gold pin and a one-year subscription to QUILL AND SCROLL magazine.

With "Marriage Calls for Preparation" as its main project of work, the Future Homemakers of America strived to find ways of contributing to the joy and satisfaction of family living. Programs connected with this goal included: a panel of young homemakers, a movie, and a minister who spoke on preparation for marriage.

The Miss Louisa County High School Contest, the Mother-Daughter Banquet, a fashion show, and trip to the Virginia State Fair were among the traditional events sponsored by the Future Homemakers of America.

Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Pennington have worked with the F.H.A. to help the club fulfill its purposes, which are: "to promote a growing appreciation of the joy and satisfaction of homemaking, to emphasize the importance of worthy home membership, and to further interest in home economics."

At the F.H.A. dance the kids seem to be enjoying themselves--especially George!

This year, the F.F.A. placed first in a forestry judging contest, sent representatives to a poultry convention in Blacksburg, and contributed toys to a needy family at Christmas.

Two highlights of the year were the annual trip to the Virginia State Fair and the Father-Son Banquet.

Mr. Lancaster, Mr. Pennington, and Mr. Anderson sponsored the club. The officers including; Tommy Dunn, President; Robert Guild, Vice-president; Stuart Poindexter, Secretary; Donald Seay, Treasurer; John Massie, Sentinel.

Boys fifteen years old and over who participate in this program remain alert at all times to fight forest fires in the county. Their assistance to the fire departments in the past has literally saved timber area. The less glamorous aspect is their classroom training in the facts about wildlife and fire fighting methods.

Mr. Harding takes a breather from band class.

The Louisa County High School band entertains at football games and the Louisa, Mineral, and Orange parades.

A concert band was organized this year consisting of a select group of regular and ex-band members. An exciting attraction for the grade school students was the band's performance at their schools. This group attended the District Festival which was held in Richmond in March. Six representatives of the Louisa band auditioned for the All-State Concert Band at George Wythe High School during the year.

Band members sold all-purpose cleaner as a money-making project.

BAND

Newly organized this year, the majorettes added much color, sparkle, and life to the Louisa band. Their enthusiasm and talent boosted school spirit at football games and the bonfire pep rally.

Summer training and diligent practice and drill paid off in precision routines.

The eighth grade band boasts sixteen members.

The majorettes are Barbara Phillips; Susan Richardson; Maureen Harlow, head majorette; Linda Watkins; Carolyn Hix; and Gloria Seay.

Under the sponsorship of the National Honor Society, THE REBEL is a monthly publication representing the thoughts and opinions of Louisa County High School students. Previously, school news had been distributed to the student body through mimeographed issues since this paper was first published in 1956. However, then the need arose for photographs and more space for news coverage. The October 1963, issue of THE REBEL began to roll off the presses, adding wider coverage, and more pride and appeal to the school paper.

Even as a mimeographed representative school paper, THE REBEL won honors at the annual S.I.P.A. conventions, including a second place award in its category in its first year of publication. The editors, also, brought home honors from the first printed papers. Today, THE REBEL has expanded to six pages, including regular sports, clubs, and fashion features, plus elementary school news.

Besides the National Honor Society members, the staff includes those students who have shown considerable initiative and ability in English and journalism. New staff members are selected by the current staff upon the advice of the sponsor.

Jean Peers and Linda Thomas served as co-editors, while Dale Borden was business manager during the year.

THE CORE STAFF

This together we stand, divided we fall business is for real!

"Together we stand, divided we fall" aptly relates the sentiments of THE CORE staff. The business and editorial staffs joined forces to create and publish the 1965 annual. Led by Mary Lou Bagby, editor, the editorial staff was responsible for the entire make-up of the book including layout and copy. The business staff with co-managers, Ann Bowles and Carol Lupton, upheld the financial status of the annual by collecting advertisements, mailing statements and selling the finished product to the students. Together the staffs planned the annual's theme, cover, and contents, as well as managing the task of pictures.

In every spare moment, both at home and at school, the staff members wrote copy, selected pictures, typed and proofread the contents before meeting the inevitable deadline. Mrs. Woodward, Mrs. Wescott, and Miss Williams served as dedicated sponsors who assumed their advisory capacity and steered the staff onward toward the final goal -- The 1965 CORE.

Jubilant teammates carry Coach Artz to the showers after trouncing Fluvanna to win the district championship. "Hey, Coach, I think you're gonna get wet!"

Quarterback Dickie Hopkins skirts end en route to six points.

The 1964 Rebels clinched their second consecutive District II Championship despite an otherwise disappointing season of four wins and six losses.

Quarterback Dickie Hopkins was the leading passer completing eighty-nine out of 168 passes for 1,509 yards and fifteen touchdowns. As leading receiver, Tom Disse gained 669 yards on twenty-six receptions. Tying for high scorer with nine touchdowns each, Hopkins and Disse earned All-State, All-Area, and All-District acclaim. Nick Solowow, leading rusher with 495 yards, recived All-Area honors.

The linemen, who are responsible for much of the glory that goes to the backs, shared in the honors, also. Leading the offense were Eddie Richardson, who earned berths on the All-State and All-District teams, and All-District Ronnie Smith. The defensive unit was strengthened by the superior playing of Hudson Grant, Hank Bagby, and Donnie Seay.

In January, the squads were the honored guests at the annual football banquet sponsored by the Lions and Rotary Clubs. Dickie Hopkins was presented the A.R. Southall Athletic Award for his outstanding athletic achievement during his high school career. Named the most valuable lineman, Hudson Grant received the University of Richmond award for the most improved player. Nick Solowow was chosen as most valuable back.

By defeating Madison and Fluvanna in the district tri-meet, the Louisa County High School 1964 track team reigned as district II champions for the first time in the history of the school. The overall record was 2-2. New school records were set by Dickie Hopkins, with a 23:8 in the 220 yard dash, and Kenny Lancaster, with a 4:46 in the one mile run. Other outstanding members of the team included Gary Webster, Dickie Hopkins, Nick Solowow and Bruce Ely who remained victors in the 880 yard relay in the four meets.

Since track has only recently become an integral part of the athletic program of Louisa County High School during the past three years, it is anticipated that it will be expanded and play a more important role in the future.

Hard work and determination were the key words for this year's junior varsity football squad. Featuring a balanced attack and overall good teamwork, the Little Rebs were often outweighed - but never outplayed - as they completed their second undefeated season in a row. Under the guidance of Coach Woolfolk, a strong team was forged from the largest turnout ever experienced for J.V. football. The fact that all 32 boys lettered during the team's march toward its 6-0 record will attest to its depth, and each boy played his part in helping the team chalk up its record.

All-around team play was featured by the Rebels basketball team this year, and the formula worked quiet well. The absence of one person who could be said to lead the team was not really felt, since different individuals came forth in most of the games as they were called upon. Each player on the team played good ball in each game, and when one or a combination of players had an especially good night, the Rebels were unstopable.

Under the guidance of Coach Woolfolk, the Rebels had few problems jelling into a smoothly working team, which left nothing to be desired in providing thrills for the crowds. In fact, some of their games could hardly have been more exciting, as the Rebels went into overtime to win two games, and many other games were decided by one point.

Leading scorer with 218 points and, also, leading rebounder with 191 rebounds was Ronnie Smith. Other high-point men were Bob Staples and Dickie Hopkins with 212 points and 207 points respectively.

The season was capped off by the District II Tournament at Louisa. Ending with a 10-8 record, the Rebels captured third place honors in the district. Dickie Hopkins and Bob Staples received positions on the All-Tournament Team. Three Rebels---Dickie Hopkins, Bob Staples, and Ronnie Smith---were placed on the All-District Team.

The record of the J.V.'s was not improved this year by the fact that their two high scorers were moved up to the varsity team after seven games. After sparking the team for the early part of the season, Bobby Marshall and Barry Noel were called upon to aid a faltering varsity team. However, Little Reb spirit remained high, and although the team scores were not as good, they still continued to give their best, and their overall playing remained excellent.

The Rebelettes fight it out with Madison opponents.

The Rebelettes and their coach, Julia Williams, produced a 4-6 record this season. The fourteen members of the squad elected Ann Bowles and Janet Sharpe as co-captains.

Chosen on the basis of their contributions, enthusiasm, and team spirit, Ann Bowles, guard, Pat Bailey, and Maureen Harlow, forwards, were recognized as the outstanding Rebelettes of the season. Maureen Harlow reigned as high scorer with 81 points.

Linking run, reach, and rebound as the 3R's of basketball and of life, Mrs. Homer M. Kline spoke at the third annual banquet given by the Woman's Club to honor the girls' basketball squad and the coach.

Capturing top honors at the banquet, Carol Lupton received a white wool blazer for three years' participation.

Since only four seniors, Carol Lupton, Judy Chisholm, Monica Shealor, and Ann Bowles, left the squad, the Rebelettes are looking forward to a powerful season next year.

The Junior Rebelettes greatly improved their ball-handling as the season progressed, ending with a 6-2 record. Mary Holley, high scorer, racked up 61 points in their eight games.

Except for two veterans, Linda Lanahan and Sally Phillips, the team was comprised of all newcomers.

Gwen Lloyd, manager, and Hilda Fisher, score-keeper, helped make this season a very enjoyable one.

THE FINAL PEP RALLY
OF THE YEAR!!

Teresa's "black eye" proved to be hilarious!

FIRST ROW: Mary Lou Bagby, Lou Walker, Diane Hawks. SECOND ROW: Teresa Chiles, Joyce Talley. THIRD ROW: Pam Henderson, Linda Kay Sprouse. HEAD: Betty Ann Laws.

This praiseworthy group of varsity cheerleaders has been the inspiration of L.C.H.S. this year. At pep rallies they have spread their enthusiasm to the team as well as to the student body.

Their efforts to make the school more colorful included decorating the goal posts, helping plan and carry out homecoming festivities, and leading cheers at pep rallies and games. Even before school opened, the cheerleaders were busy. They sold the ads for the football programs and represented the school in several parades. During the Mineral Fair they volunteered to operate a booth and sell tickets on the car. When school opened, they served as welcomed guides for the eighth graders. Mrs. Russell, sponsor, led both cheerleading squads.

CHEERLEADERS

Joan Bowles, Head Cheerleader; Judy Vogt; Sally McGraw; Jeanie Duke.

That's right, Jeanie!! You're supposed to use your mouth in this business!!!"

Boasting spirit at the J.V. level are four dedicated cheerleaders - Joan Bowles, head cheerleader, Sally McGraw, Judy Vogt, and Jeanie Duke. Armed with football programs at the games, these girls are top-notch salesmen. Aspiring to make the varsity squad, each put in long hours of repetitious practice during the two seasons.

Despite a discouraging beginning, the 1964 varsity baseball season closed with a nine-four record. Had the weather conditions permitted the team's two games with Scottsville, Louisa would have ended its season tied for the championship.

This season brings back two three-year lettermen --- Dickie Hopkins, and Donald Seay; and five two-year lettermen --- Tom Disse, Dicky Leake, Roy McGhee, Nick Solowow, and Bob Staples. Also, on the 1965 team are numerous one-year lettermen --- Elmo Daniel, Boxley Diggs, Richard Butler, B. H. Kent, Eddie Richardson, and Wayne Thomas.

Improvement over the last two years was shown when the 1964 junior varsity baseball team gained a 3-4 season record. Named as outstanding players on the team were Donnie Sacra, catcher; James Baker, pitcher; Steve Sheridan, out-fielder; and James Ford, in-fielder.

With the assistance of Coach Woolfolk and some promising eighth grade boys the 1965 team should have a better than average season.

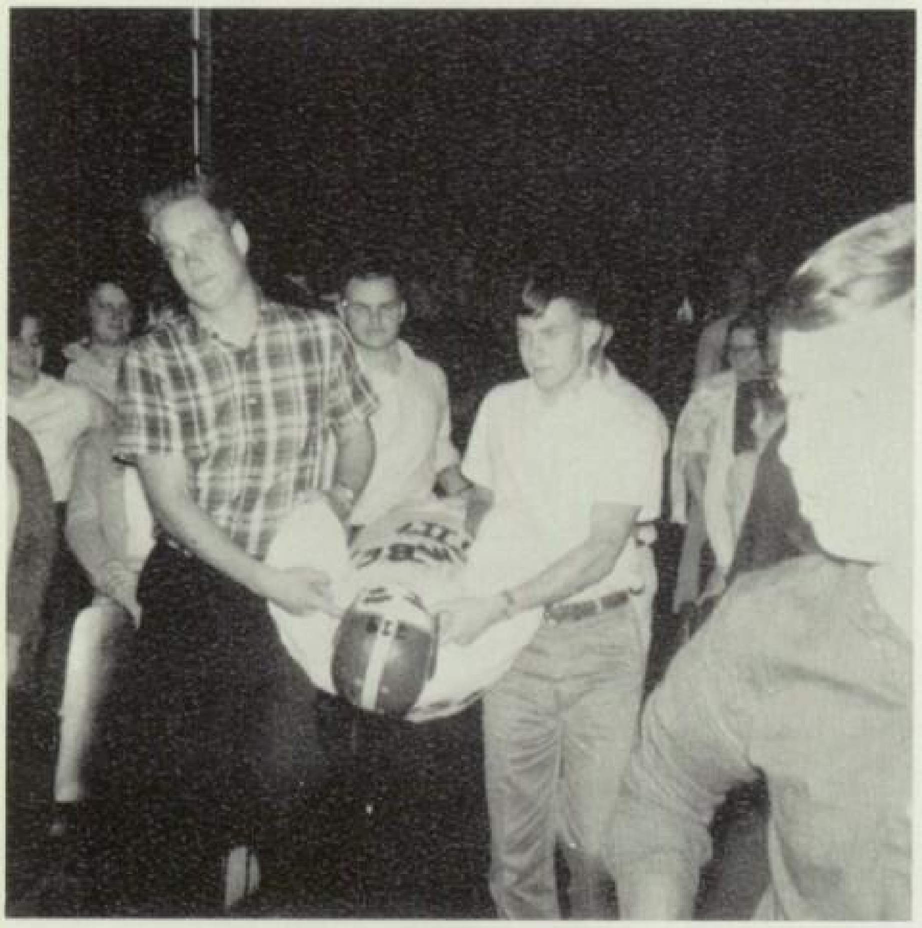
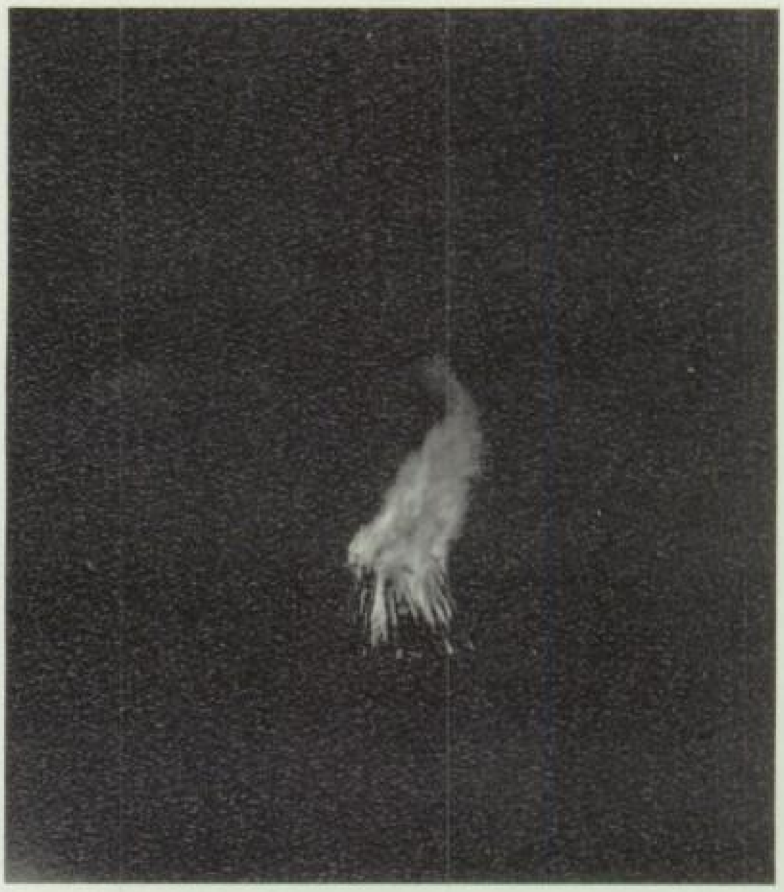
FEATURES



In assembly the football players present the dummy to the students to arouse spirit.



Spirit for the upcoming game is boosted to a peak at the bonfire.

The homecoming line-up awaits the crowning.

Despite a crushing defeat with Cumberland and rainy weather, homecoming was a success.

The Homecoming Princesses--Mary Lou Bagby, Ann Bowles, Joyce Grant, Carol Lupton, Barbara Sacra, Phyllis Sprouse and Kathy Winston---contributed, during Homecoming Week, to an informal discussion in an assembly to help the students become better acquainted with them.

Preceding the Homecoming evening, a bonfire pep-rally aroused school spirit. The majorettes and the band, playing grim music, led the solemn procession. Next came the cheerleaders, who were followed by the football players bearing the coffin and dummy. After the tumultuous burning of the dummy in effigy of the homecoming opponent, Coach Artz gave a pep talk, urging the students to support their team all the way to victory at the game.

HOMECOMING

The newly elected queen, Phyllis Sprouse, was crowned by the 1963-64 queen, Betsye Maddox, during the half-time ceremonies of the game.

The new queen and her six princesses reigned over the Homecoming Dance following the game. The theme, "Gridiron Glories", honored the football players. A huge football hung suspended over the gymnasium floor. Football jerseys of all the players decorated the walls. Music by the Strasburg Band entertained students, faculty, and alumni.

Phyllis Sprouse, the new queen, beams during halftime of the game.

Seven lovely maidens all in a row . . . L.C.H.S. really outdid herself with such lovely Homecoming candidates. The queen and her court are all smiles as they pose at the Homecoming Dance.

MISS L.C.H.S.

Brenda Diane Deavers, Miss L.C.H.S.

Joyce Ann Grant, First Runner-Up.

Mary Louise Bagby, Second Runner-Up.

Brenda Diane Deavers, sixteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Deavers of Gordonsville, was crowned Miss Louisa County High School on Saturday, November 21, 1964, at the annual beauty contest sponsored by the Future Homemakers of America. Selected from a group of girls representing grades eight through twelve, she was chosen by a panel of visiting judges on the basis of poise, personality, and beauty. A junior, Brenda was crowned by Julie Thacker, last year's winner, and presented a dozen red roses and a trophy.

Master of Ceremonies was Gentleman Jim, a disc jockey of radio station, WGOE, in Richmond. By directing questions to each of the ten finalists, he helped the judges in making their final decision.

Finalists were Joyce Grant, first runner-up, and Mary Lou Bagby, second runner-up. Each received a silver Revere bowl.

CONVENTIONS

Carol Lupton, Linda Thomas, Cynthia Dunkum, Jean Peers, and Mary Lou Bagby attended the S.I.P.A. convention.

The purpose of the Southern Interscholastic Press Association Convention is to benefit future journalistic staffs in school publications.

The thirty-fifth annual convention, held at Washington and Lee University, was attended by Jean Peers and Linda Thomas, co-editors of the school newspaper. Representing the annual staff were Mary Lou Bagby, editor, Carol Lupton, co-business manager and Cynthia Dunkum, layout editor.

Nationally known newsmen and photographers spoke at the convention. Workshops and meetings were also conducted by these specialists. Three issues of THE REBEL and the 1963 CORE were submitted for competition and constructive criticism.

The newspaper received creditable rating, while the annual took honor rating at the convention.

Boys' and Girls' State, a miniature form of the state government of Virginia, is sponsored by the American Legion. The July, 1964, session of Girls' State was held at Radford College, while Boys' State was held at the College of William and Mary.

Representatives from Louisa County High School, sponsored by several local civic organizations, were Dale Borden, Linda Thomas and Nick Solowow.

During the session each representative was placed in a city in order to assume his role in the campaigns and related elections. The students, in addition to meeting new people, were informed about the governmental procedures with regard to the city and county, as well as the state. This has proved beneficial both to the representatives as individuals and to the school in its entirety, since the club meetings use similar parliamentary procedure.

Those who represented the school at Boys' and Girls' State were Dale Borden, Linda Thomas, and Nick Solowow.

JUNIOR COUNTY GOVERNMENT

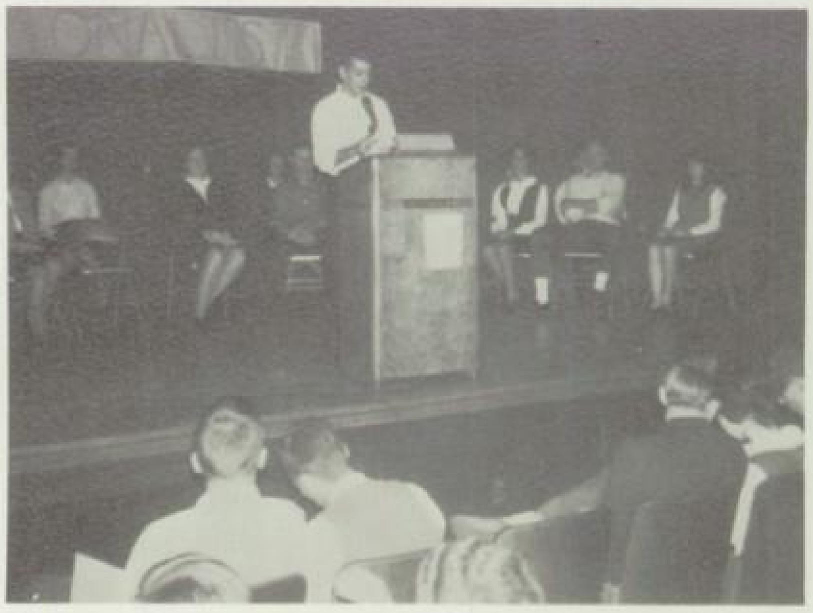
FIRST ROW: Vicki Hicks, Jeanean Woolfolk, Joanne Thomas, Linda Thomas, Carol Lupton, Dale Borden. SECOND ROW: Hudson Grant, Tommy Nelson, Boxley Diggs, Randy Holley, Buddy Jones, Diane Hawks.

In order to acquaint the students of Louisa County High School with the government in their county, the Rotary Club and the S.C.A. sponsored a mock election in November. Supervisors from each district, along with the five county officials, were chosen by the vote of the student body. They spent a day with the county officials whom they represent.

To have his name considered, the prospective candidate was required to submit the signatures of twenty-five students and two teachers. Supervisors were required to submit only ten student signatures.

The Nationalist Party, headed by Tommy Nelson, and the Federalist Party, headed by Hudson Grant, then held conventions at which the actual candidates were chosen. Following the conventions, each party conducted an extensive campaign to win support for its candidates.

Successful candidates were: Buddy Jones, Sheriff; Carol Lupton, Commonwealth's Attorney; Vicki Hicks, Treasurer; Dale Borden, Commissioner of Revenue; Linda Thomas, County Clerk. The supervisors were: Randy Holley, Green Springs; Jeanean Woolfolk, Louisa; Joanne Thomas, Mineral; Diane Hawks, Cuckoo; and Boxley Diggs, Jackson.



Tommy Nelson introduces one of the candidates for the Nationalist Party.

SPECIAL EVENTS

The girls' basketball team, the Rebelettes, were honored by the Senior Woman's Club at a banquet in December.

At the annual football banquet, Dickie Hopkins was presented the A. R. Southall, Jr. Athletic Award for the most outstanding senior athlete.

An exuberant student body cheered on the football team at the final pep rally of the year.
